

Nurture Nature Center to discuss recycling in Easton on Tuesday

By CHRISTINA TATU

OF THE MORNING CALL |

SEP 27, 2016 | 4:06 PM

Gabby Saoazar of Easton, talks about science near the suspended sphere at the Nurture Nature Center. / (Ed. Note: FEATURES - ED KOSKEY JR. / SPECIAL TO THE MORNING CALL - August 2, 2012) (ED KOSKEY JR. / SPECIAL TO THE MORNING CALL)

The Nurture Nature Center will host a forum from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Tuesday about recycling in Easton.

The forum is being held in collaboration with Easton's Environmental Advisory Council and Lafayette College.

The forum is in response to concerns raised during "Easton Matters" a two-year project the Nurture Nature Center conducted examining environmental concerns among the city's four neighborhoods. The forum will also assist in research Lafayette students are conducting about recycling efforts and behavior in Easton.

"We are trying to determine ways to increase the success of recycling programs in the city," Kate Semmens, the Nurture Nature Center's science director, wrote in an e-mail.

"The forum will consist of small group discussion where Easton residents can share their insight and knowledge about the current state of recycling," she said.

The Nurture Nature Center is located at 518 Northampton St. Food and drinks will be provided. To RSVP or for more information, call 610-253-4432 or e-mail ksemmens@nurturenature.org